

VICTORY!

Newsweek

Supreme Court Says No to Buffer Zones Around Abortion Clinics

The Boston Globe

Supreme Court rulings jolt women's groups into action

Hundreds rally to support women's rights

After court setback,
Massachusetts passes new clinic
security law

Over the past few months, our members have fought back like never before, and it's working! Since May, the legislature enacted two new pro-choice laws. The first makes it illegal to shackle an incarcerated woman during childbirth – a barbaric practice that was still being used in this state until just a few months ago. The second ensures safe access to health care facilities, in the wake of the Buffer Zone Law being overturned.

For the first time in over seven years, our elected pro-choice majority is acting like a majority! And you know why? Because you are holding them accountable.

From making thousands of calls to your legislators, to more than 1,000 activists coming to our Supreme Rally, the pro-choice movement in our state is stronger than ever before because of you.

Policymakers heard you loud and clear: you will not tolerate attacks on women's rights in Massachusetts or anywhere!

Thank you for standing up for what you believe in — that women have the right to make their own health care decisions regardless of the beliefs of their boss or a protester on the street.

Your continued advocacy and financial support will make Massachusetts a national model for what it means to protect women's health. You know we are not immune to federal attacks here in Massachusetts, and everyone at NARAL is excited to continue to fight back alongside you!