

NARAL Pro-Choice Massachusetts is Standing Up For Pro-Choice Champions

Massachusetts Changes the National Conversation

Your legislators need to know you stand behind them when they speak up for your pro-choice values!

NARAL and our members are taking the lead in supporting legislators who stand up for pro-choice values, proving to elected officials across the country that they need to speak up for choice, too.

When Massachusetts Senator Elizabeth Warren stood up against anti-choice extremists on the floor of the U.S. Senate, more than 500 NARAL members signed a giant thank you card to let Senator Warren know:

Massachusetts has her back.

Senator Warren's reaction:
"When it gets really bad in Washington, I'm going to pin this on my wall!"

You changed the national conversation.

You made it clear: When senators stand up against anti-choice extremists, voters have their backs. Because senators across the country saw such support from their constituents, they stepped up to defeat a second dangerous anti-choice measure just weeks later.

"Women have lived through a world where backward-looking ideologues tried to interfere with the basic health decisions made by a woman and her doctor, and we are not going back."

- Senator Warren, speaking to the U.S. Senate
